Indigestion

IS not only a distressing complaint, of itself, but, by causing the blood to become depraved and the system enfeebled, is the parent of innumerable maladies. That Ayer's Sarsaparilla is the best cure for Indigestion, even when complicated with Liver Complaint, is proved by the following testimony from Mrs. Joseph Lake, of Brockway Centre, Mich.: —

"Liver complaint and indigestion made my life a burden and came near ending my existence. For more than four years I suffered untold agony, was reduced almost to a skeleton, and hardly had strength to drag myself about. All kinds of food distressed me, and only the most delicate could be digested at all. Within the time mentioned several physicians treated me without giving relief. Nothing that I took seemed to do any permanent good until I commenced the use of Ayer's Sarsaparilla, which has produced wonderful results. Soon after commencing to take the Sarsaparilla I could see an improvement in my condition. My appetite began to return and with it came the ability to digest all the food taken, my strength improved each day, and after a few months of faithful attention to your directions, I found myself a well woman, able to attend to all household duties. The medicine has given me a new lease of life."

FOR BENWELL'S MURDER

The Birchells Held by the Coroner's Jury.

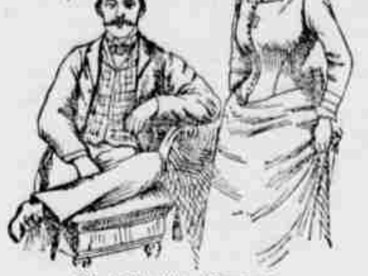
RESUME OF AN INTERESTING CASE

The Career of Birchell, alias "Lord Somerset," the Young Exquisite Who Is Accused of F. C. Benwell's Murder. The Theory of the Police.

PRINCETON, Ont., March 11.—J. Reginald Birchell must answer for the murder of Frederick C. Benwell. The coroner's jury, after considering all the testimony, has so decided. They rendered a verdict finding that Benwell came to his death at the hands of Birchell, and they implicated Birchell's wife as having guilty knowledge of the crime after its commission. After a lengthy consultation the following verdict was agreed upon:

Verdict of the Coroner's Jury.

"We find that the said F. C. Benwell came to his death by two pistol shots fired into his head from behind, one at or near the nape of the neck and the other a little behind and above the left ear, either one of which was sufficient to cause death, and your jurors have reason to believe, and do believe, that said shots were fired by the hand of Reginald Birchell, alias Somerset, with deliberate purpose, wilfully and feloniously, to commit murder, on or about the 17th of February, 1890, and we are of opinion that Caroline Birchell, the wife of said Reginald Birchell, was accessory to the murder after the fact."



MR. AND MRS. BIRCHELL.

Mrs. Birchell's Position.

There was very little difference of opinion among the jurors as to the question of guilt, the only question being whether or not a verdict should be given in the absence of the prisoners. Under the law of Canada a wife cannot be punished for shielding her husband, and therefore Mrs. Birchell cannot be made accessory after the fact, in the general sense of the term.

The Body Exhumed.

When the inquest was resumed D. R. Pelley, the young man who accompanied Benwell and Birchell to this country, was taken to the grave of the murdered man, where the body was exhumed. He recognized the dead man as Benwell. After Pelley had identified the body of his murdered companion he was put in the witness box. He again told the wonderful story of his associations with Birchell and Benwell as he told it at Niagara Falls.

Were There Other Victims?

New and sensational developments are cropping up in connection with the tragedy, and the question now is whether there have not been at least two victims. Some two or three years ago a young Englishman, Neville H. Pickthall, came here, and about a year ago purchased a farm six miles south of Woodstock. About four months ago he married the daughter of his minister. Feb. 10 last Pickthall raised a $1,000 on a mortgage on his farm and left here, saying to his wife: "I am going to double this money before I come back." He was seen at Niagara Falls that night, and then said he was going to New York to meet his sister.

He Was Never Seen Again.

The testimony in the Birchell examination showed that Pickthall reached New York and there met the Birchells. Since then no trace of him has been found and no word has been received from him. His disappearance caused a stir at the time and the police sent descriptions of him all over the country. The theory now is that he was enticed to New York by Birchell with the expectation of making a large sum of money, and that he was put out of the way for the money he carried with him. A search of Birchell's baggage will be made for anything that might give a clew to Pickthall's fate.

Pelley's testimony, if true, shows conclusively that Mrs. Birchell aided and abetted in the swindling of Pelley and the deceased, whether she knew of the murder or not. She frequently mentioned the fictitious farm to Pelley.

Birchell's Strange Career.

What is known of Birchell's career is not at all to his credit. It is said that he was always a liar, always an adventurer. In college he loved to pose as the scion of some great family. If caught in a lie he would easily laugh it off. He made the acquaintance of the daughter of David Stephenson, a traffic manager of the London and Northwestern railroad, and won her heart by his dashing ways and taking lies. He said he was a great land owner and stock raiser in Canada. They were secretly married against the father's wishes, who wished to know more about the young man, and sailed away for Canada. And here, in the little village of Woodstock, which they reached in the autumn of 1888, they began to cut the swell which made him such a local celebrity.

Here He Was "Lord Somerset."

Here he was Birchell no longer, but Somerset, Lord Somerset, or at least the son of Lord Somerset, with all the glamour of a title about him. He was an exquisite in every way. His linen was embroidered to suit his rank. He even went in debt like a lord, and when he left Woodstock there were many poignant memories in the shape of unpaid bills left behind him. His wife, a blue eyed, light haired, pretty little blonde, was a fit companion for one so high bred.

They left at last and went back to England, and for a time lived with Mr. Stephenson, who forgave his daughter for her secret marriage. The girl told no tales out of school, though it is certain that by this time she knew her husband to be a rascal. And meanwhile "Lord Somerset" set about some means of recouping his exhausted exchequer. In the course of time he fell in with Frederick C. Benwell, of Cheltenham, England, and Douglass Raymond Pelley, of Saffron Waldon, Essex, and lured them to Canada as heretofore described in these dispatches.

The Theory of the Police.

Birchell, his wife, Benwell and Pelley crossed the Atlantic together on the Germanic. By the time they reached Buffalo Pelley had been bled £170. How much Benwell was mulcted does not seem clear, although Birchell is said to have carefully examined the thirteen pieces of valuable baggage the murdered man had with him. Birchell also knew that Benwell had considerable money with him. The party reached Buffalo Feb. 16. The next day Birchell and Benwell started for the mythical farm, leaving Mrs. Birchell and Pelley in Buffalo. Birchell returned alone that night and said Benwell had gone further up the country looking for desirable land. For the next few days Mr. and Mrs. Birchell and Pelley remained at the Falls, and during this time Birchell acted so suspiciously that Pelley feared of his life.

Pelley's Wild Goose Chase.

One day Birchell said that a message from Benwell to the Stafford house had said to send all his baggage to the Fifth Avenue hotel, New York. Two days later Birchell came into the house and said:

"What do you think I have seen in the paper in connection with that man found murdered at Princeton. They have found a cigar case marked F. C. Benwell."

It was arranged that Pelley should go to New York and make inquiries at the Fifth Avenue. He did so, but found no clew. Returning to Clifton he found a constable on the steps of the Baldwin house who told him Birchell had identified the body and was likely to be arrested. So Pelley went down to Magistrate Hill and told his story, knowing at the time that he was suspected of complicity in the murder.

The Finding of the Body.

The spot where Frederick Benwell was murdered is an uncanny thicket set in the midst of swamps in the little hamlet of Princeton. It is desolate and fearful in its isolation. Until the rough cart track was cut through the tract in 1888 the forest had been deserted even by the woodcutters for years. Several days after the murder the body was discovered by two woodsmen.

When the body was found it was lying astride a rotten tree stump. The legs were partly crossed, while the trunk itself half rested, half hung over the stump. The head was bent backward against the spine. The eyes were closed, so was the mouth. The right arm and hand had been frozen into a clinched position of defiance, while the left hung limp. The flesh was blue from exposure to the cold. There were two bullet holes in the head.

How the Deed Was Done.

A very plausible theory is that Benwell and his murderer were walking down the road, the one before the other. The murderer, when his opportunity was best, drew out his revolver and fired two shots into the neck of his companion.

He must have been hard upon his victim, for the powder from one bullet, as it entered the side of the head, burned the eye and scorched it with the powder. The other bullet entered just below the base of the brain, square in the back.

Birchell was seen within five miles of the spot on Monday, Feb. 17. He was seen to leave the station at Eastwood, Ont., with Frederick Benwell shortly before noon, and later the pair were met walking together along the Governor's road in the direction of Princeton. When Birchell was next seen it was toward 4 o'clock in the afternoon, and he was alone.

FIFTY-FIRST CONGRESS.

Condensed Report of Proceedings in Senate and House.

WASHINGTON, March 7.—In the senate the following public building bills were passed: Sterling, Ills., $50,000; Oakland, Cal., $300,000; Cheyenne, Wy. T., $150,000; Chester, Pa., $100,000; Helena, M. T., $400,000. The bill appropriating $500,000 for a building at Salt Lake City gave rise to debate, Mr. Plumb desiring to have the appropriation reduced to $400,000.

At 2 o'clock the bill went over and the educational bill was taken up. In response to inquiries, Mr. Blair said he could not fix a day for voting on the bill. Several senators were still to speak, among them Mr. Evarts, who was to conclude the debate. In the course of his remarks on the bill Mr. Blair said that any longer delay in disposing of this matter would be unjustifiable, and he would look upon it as a perpetual abandonment of the effort to give national aid to the schools of the country. The Republican party was pledged in its platform to the passage of the bill, and if that party failed to make good its pledge that fact would put an end to the party. Like many other men in this country, he owed no political allegiance to a party that lied.

Mr. Hale spoke in opposition to the bill. It had been before the senate for eight years, and all the time there had been a rising tide against it. In his state, Mr. Hale asserted, the press and educators and clergymen were against the bill, and the increased opposition to it was only because observation and reason were against it. He controverted Mr. Blair's assertion that the condition of education was worse now than twenty years ago. If the bill became law, the line of state and local interests and influence in education would fade away and ultimately be swallowed up by federal influence.

WASHINGTON, March 7.—In the house the resolution declaring Mr. Clark (Ala.) entitled to his seat was adopted, and several measures on the private calendar were disposed of. When the report on the Threet-Clark contested election case had been agreed to, the house passed senate bill increasing from $158,000 to $200,000 the limit of cost of the public building at El Paso, Tex. Senate bill referring to the court of claims the claim of W. E. Woodbridge for the use of inventions of projectiles for rifled cannon was defeated—111 to 128. The house then went into committee of the whole on the private calendar.

The bill directing the secretary of the treasury to pay $175,000 to Albert H. Emery, of Connecticut, in settlement of his claim for the use of the testing machine invented by him, was taken up and discussed. No action was taken.

WASHINGTON, March 10.—The house concurred in the senate resolution providing for an investigation by a joint committee of the senate and house committees on immigration into the working of the federal and state laws relative to immigration from foreign countries.

The resolution was amended so as to direct the joint committee to investigate the effect on American workmen that is likely to follow the purchase of American industries by foreign capitalists; also to report to congress the official correspondence on the proposal to make Bedloe's Island, New York harbor, an immigrant depot; what title the government had to such island; the buildings to be erected and the officers and employes it is designed to employ at such immigration depot and whether in the opinion of the committees such island is the best and most suitable place for such depot.

A bill was passed increasing to $100 a month the pension of Gen. Horace Boughton. Senate bills were passed for the ascertainment of the amounts due to the Pottawatomie Indians of Michigan and Indiana, and for the taking of the census in Alaska. The senate bill to prevent the introduction of contagious disease from one state to another was passed.

Mr. Lacey (Ia.) reported from the committee on elections a resolution for the appointment of a sub-committee to go to Arkansas and make a full investigation of the Clayton-Breckinridge contested election case. Agreed to.

Among the bills introduced are the following: By Mr. Watson (Pa.)—Appropriating $60,000 for the purchase of a site and the erection of a public building at Bradford, Pa. By Mr. McClellan (Ind.)—Amending the pension laws regarding widows who remarry. [Similar to Mr. Vorhees' senate bill.] By Mr. Cogswell (Kan.)—Appropriating $100,000 for a public building at Newburyport, Mass. By Mr. Watson (Pa.)—Appropriating $60,000 for a public building at Oil City, Pa.

The house committee on war claims has authorized a favorable report on the bill introduced in the house by Mr. Maish to authorize the payment of damages sustained by citizens of the state of Pennsylvania from Union and Confederate troops during the late war. The bill appropriates $3,447,945, payable to the governor of the state of Pennsylvania, to provide for the payment of these claims. The bill passed the committee by a vote of 6 to 4. The minority will probably submit a report opposing the passage of the bill.

A petition numerously signed has been presented to Secretary Windom protesting against the selection of Bedloe's Island, New York harbor, as an immigrant station. Secretary Windom said Bedloe's Island had been selected after much care and consideration and he saw no good reason to change his determination to locate the immigrant station there.

Mrs. Storrs Wins.

NEW YORK, March 12.—Judge Ingraham, in the special term of the supreme court, yesterday decided that Mrs. Allien F. Storrs is entitled to a separation from her husband, George M. Storrs, the son of the late Emory A. Storrs, the Chicago lawyer. The particulars of her suit, in which she charged cruelty and drunkenness against her husband, have been heretofore told. The judge concluded that Mrs. Storrs was a devoted wife and mother, and that her husband was unworthy of belief and treated her in a cruel and inhuman manner.

The Mine Fire Extinguished.

WILKESBARRE, Pa., March 12.—The flames in the South Wilkesbarre shaft were extinguished yesterday afternoon, and the pumping process has been stopped.

The Murdered Woman Identified.

NEW YORK, March 12.—The body of the woman found in No. 3 Eldridge street has been identified as that of Sally Greenburg, aged 30 years, the divorced wife of Isaac Jacobs, the murderer. She was his second wife and lived at 113 Chambers street. Some time ago she was about to return to live with Jacobs, but the proposed agreement was not carried out. Nathan S. Levy, a lawyer, identified the body.

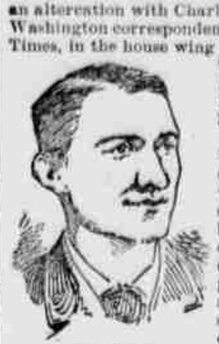
TAULBEE IS DEAD

And Correspondent Kincaid Must Stand Trial for Murder.

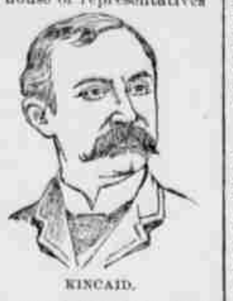
WASHINGTON, March 12.—Ex-Congressman William Preston Taulbee, who was shot in an altercation with Charles E. Kincaid, the Washington correspondent of The Louisville Times, in the house wing of the Capitol, on the afternoon of Feb. 28, died March 11 at Providence hospital.



TAULBEE.

His death has been expected for several days, but while there was still a chance for his life the physicians thought it advisable not to permit him to make an ante-mortem statement of the circumstances surrounding the shooting. He died, therefore, without making any statement, and the case against Kincaid will rest entirely on the testimony of himself and the two eye witnesses of the tragedy. One of these witnesses was Samuel Donaldson, of Tennessee, formerly doorkeeper of the house of representatives, who has refused to make any statement for publication. Donaldson was with Taulbee at the time the shooting occurred. The other witness was a boy who cannot be found. The stories of the shooting differ in one important particular.

Kincaid and Taulbee had an encounter some time prior to the shooting in the corridor adjoining the house of representatives on the east. It was just before the shooting took place that Kincaid had armed himself, and after the first encounter with Taulbee, and seeing him going down the stairs that led to the basement, had run after him, called to him, and as he turned shot him in the face. Kincaid claimed that he armed himself in fear of danger from a further encounter with Taulbee; that Taulbee had warned him to arm himself, and that Taulbee insulted and attacked him on their second encounter, rendering his resort to the pistol a necessity.



KINCAID.

As soon as the news of Taulbee's death reached police headquarters an officer was sent to Kincaid's room. He was awakened, and after he had dressed was taken to the police station, where he now is. The theory of self defense will be set up by Kincaid's lawyers.

Aaron Kohn, the noted criminal lawyer of Louisville, Ky., and Judge Hangis, the well known jurist of Kentucky, have been engaged by Kincaid's friends to defend him in his trial.

Soon after he was shot Mr. Taulbee requested that no prosecution against Kincaid should be taken, but the law will be followed. Taulbee was born in Morgan county, Ky., Oct. 21, 1851; was educated in private country schools; studied for the ministry from 1875 to 1878, and for the law from 1878 to 1881; was admitted to the bar in 1881; was elected clerk of the Magoffin county court in 1878 and re elected in 1882; was elected to the Forty-ninth congress and was re-elected to the Fiftieth congress as a Democrat.

ANOTHER MINE HORROR.

One Hundred and Sixty Lives Reported Lost in Wales.

LONDON, March 11.—A terrific explosion occurred in the Morsa colliery, Glamorganshire, Wales, which, it is feared, will be attended with much loss of life. One hundred miners are entombed and communication with them is impossible for the present. It is feared that all of them have perished.

Later advices from the Morsa colliery are that 300 miners were entombed, but that 200 have been rescued from the workings nearest the main shaft. Most of those taken out are unhurt, but several have received fatal injuries. Heavy falls of rock prevent the explorers from reaching the more remote workings. The choke damp is spreading, and it is feared that 100 lives have been lost.

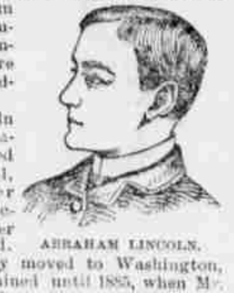
A further fall of debris into the wrecked Morsa colliery has completely blocked the pit and rendered all attemps to rescue the imprisoned miners futile until the mass can be cleared away. The latest estimate places the number of dead at over 160.

Eight bodies, horribly mutilated, have been taken out of the Morsa pit. It is rumored that the rescuers have heard appeals for help coming from the entombed men, but the rescuers are unable to push their search because of the gas and flame which confront them.

DEATH WAS VICTOR.

Young Abraham Lincoln's Brave Fight for Life Ended.

LONDON, March 6.—Abraham Lincoln, son of Mr. Robert T. Lincoln, United States minister at the Court of St. James, died March 5. Young Lincoln passed away quietly. He was in a comatose state and his stomach rejected all nourishment. The attending physicians, after a careful examination, expressed the opinion that their patient's end was only a matter of a few hours. For a time previous to his death he was entirely free from pain. All the members of Mr. Lincoln's family were present at the bedside.



ABRAHAM LINCOLN.

Young Lincoln was born in Chicago in 1873. He lived there until 1881, when his father was appointed secretary of war under Gen. Garfield. Then the family moved to Washington, where they remained until 1885, when Mr. Lincoln returned to Chicago. When Mr. Lincoln was appointed minister to England early in President Harrison's administration he took his family with him to London.

Toward the end of last October a large carbuncle appeared on young Lincoln's left side. His condition soon became so critical that his father was summoned post haste from London. The French surgeons used the knife boldly, and after the carbuncle had been thoroughly opened poulticed the wound. The effect of this treatment was not as successful as Minister Lincoln could have desired. The young patient had a number of relapses, and a large inflammatory growth appeared around the seat of the carbuncle. On Nov. 18 another operation was performed by the French surgeons and some tissues, supposed to be gangrenous, were removed. The second operation left young Lincoln in a very enfeebled state.

Mr. Lincoln was all this time very much dissatisfied with the course of treatment carried on by the French physicians, and finally, in December, had his son removed to the embassy in London. There he was attended by several surgeons, but in spite of the most unremitting care, slowly sank from exhaustion and weakness. The queen has sent to Minister Lincoln a message of sympathy and condolence upon the death of his son. The body of young Lincoln will be interred in the family tomb at Springfield.

Flack on Trial.

NEW YORK, March 11.—James A. Flack, sheriff of New York county, his son, Will, and Joseph Meeks, indicted for conspiracy in obtaining a divorce for the sheriff from Mrs. Flack by fraudulent means, were placed on trial in the court of oyer and terminer before Judge Barrett, yesterday. The three defendants named were prompt to appear at the opening of court. The woman Cherry, who was indicted jointly with the other alleged conspirators, did not appear. It is the current report that she cannot be found within the jurisdiction of the prosecuting attorney. Judge Bookstaver, who played an important part in the celebrated case, did not come to court. After five jurors had been procured the court adjourned for the day.

The St. Paul Kid Won.

BUFFALO, March 12.—Jim Kennard, the St. Paul "Kid," and Jack Lyman, of New York, fought early this morning at the Arlington Athletic club for a purse of $400. Lyman was knocked out in the twenty-second round, and the fight was awarded to Kennard.

Brief Mention of Matters Which Everybody Should Know About—A Week's Accidents and Crimes Accurately and Concisely Chronicled.

PITTSBURG, March 7.—By the explosion of a box of dynamite in a contractor's tool house on Center avenue David Hayes was instantly killed and William Soddy fatally injured. How the explosion was caused is not known. Hayes was 40 years old and leaves a widow and two children. Soddy was unmarried.

It Savored of Slavery.

PHILADELPHIA, March 8.—The first test case in a Pennsylvania court between the League and Brotherhood of baseball players came up here in the suit of the Philadelphia League club against Hallman. The case came up before Judge Arnold and Judge Thayer, who handed down a decision in the famous Metropolitan club injunction suit five years ago. In the course of the argument one of the judges remarked that the contract savored strongly of slavery. The case was taken under advisement.

He Fell Down a Mine Shaft.

SCRANTON, Pa., March 8.—A pump runner named Michael Malia fell a distance of 400 feet down the Cayuga shaft, in this city, and was instantly killed. His body was literally mashed. Malia had been hoisted up the shaft and signalled Engineer Rogers that all was right. The engineer accordingly let the carriage down again, and Malia was flung down the shaft with great force.

The quivering body fell in a heap among a number of workmen employed at the foot of the shaft.

A Narrow Escape.

READING, March 7.—Rev. Francis Hoffman, an aged retired minister of the Evangelical denomination, and his wife made a narrow escape from suffocation from escaping coal gas last night. They retired at the usual time last evening, but this morning when their daughter went to call them to breakfast there was no response. A duplicate key was procured and the door opened, when both were found insensible. Mrs. Hoffman appeared to be dead, but afterward both were revived. As they are both upwards of 80 years of age and somewhat feeble, the accident may yet lead to fatal results. The gas came from a small stove in the room.

A General Poor Law.

SCRANTON, March 7.—Hon. Lewis Pughe, of this city, chairman of the state poor commission, says the work of the commission so far reveals a failure of the overseer system to properly provide for the poor, and that when the work is completed they will prepare a general poor law to be submitted to the next legislature, the object of which will be compulsory establishment of a county poorhouse in all counties not so provided at present.

An Extensive Cave In.

PLYMOUTH, March 7.—At 3 o'clock an extensive cave in occurred here, affecting over ten acres of land on Curry's hill, in the lower end of the town, and doing considerable damage. No warning was given beyond a heavy roaring noise immediately preceding the cave that carried terror through the neighborhood. The people are alarmed and keeping themselves in readiness to move should the cave in continue. The mine officials believe no further trouble will occur and are doing all in their power to influence the miners not to abandon their homes.

An Alleged Murderer Acquitted.

NORRISTOWN, Pa., March 8.—The trial of John Kenderosch, a Hungarian, charged with the murder of John Chomo, ended with a verdict of acquittal, the commonwealth deciding that the evidence was not strong enough to press for conviction. Mrs. Chomo, the wife of the murdered man, was indicted with Kenderosch, but her counsel elected to be tried separately. She will probably be also acquitted.

Killed and Mangled on the Erie.

CARBONDALE, Pa., March 10.—Three Hungarian laborers, who were on their way home from their work at Forest City, were struck by the Erie express train and instantly killed. One of the men was hurled through the air and struck the precipitous rock that lines the road at a point about six miles from this city. His body was horribly mangled, as were those of the other victims, who were crushed by another train coming from the opposite direction.

To Found a Gigantic Mission.

PHILADELPHIA, March 10. — Postmaster General Wanamaker has under consideration the idea of founding, in this city, a gigantic mission church, and it is said that the famous Bethany will before long be transferred into a great cathedral which will have no equal in this country. Mr. Wanamaker is also on the lookout for a large farm adjoining the city, on which he intends to build a large house to be used as a resort for delicate and sick persons connected with the church and Sunday school. The postmaster general has also under consideration the idea of establishing an institution for training deacons.

His Body Destroyed.

FRANKLIN, Pa., March 10.—A terrible glycerine explosion occurred two miles north of this city at 9 o'clock. J. P. Mitchell, agent for the Rock Glycerine company, was engaged in thawing out a pan of glycerine by placing it under the exhaust pipe of the engine, when it exploded with terrific force. Mitchell's body was destroyed, and scarcely a particle of it can be found. He leaves a widow and three children.

J., conducted the requiem mass celebrated in behalf of the entombed miners in the South Wilkesbarre shaft at 8 o'clock Monday morning in St. Mary's Catholic church. Washington Brevities.

Among the bills reported favorably to the senate was one increasing the limit of cost of the building at Newark, N. J., from $350,000 to $650,000.

The house committee on invalid pensions has authorized a favorable report on the bill introduced in the senate by Mr. Davis to amend a section of the revised statutes. The bill repeals that section of the revised statutes which provides that no claim of a state militiaman on account of wounds received in battle with rebels or Indians when temporarily rendering service shall be valid unless prosecuted to a successful issue prior to July 4, 1874. It further provides that the claims of all such persons now pending or hereafter filed shall be adjudicated in the same manner as claims of others in the military service.

The house has passed bills to provide for the erection of public buildings at the following points: Cedar Rapids, Ia.; Chester, Pa.; Columbus, Ga.; Atchison, Kan.; Alexandria, La.; Hamilton, Me.; Lynn, Mass.; Lafayette, Ind.; Baton Rouge, La., and Fremont, Neb. Also bills providing for increase of the limit of cost of public buildings at Newark, N. J.; Scranton, Pa.; Troy, N. Y.; Dallas, Tex., and Springfield, Mo. The measures passed involve an expenditure of $1,845,000.

MAY'S LANDING, N. J., March 10.—Lawyer Samuel E. Perry, of May's Landing, who defended Mrs. Eva Hamilton in the proceedings which terminated in her sentence to state prison in September, is circulating a petition for her pardon. The petition has been signed by many citizens of Atlantic county, and will be presented to the New Jersey court of pardons, which will soon convene in Trenton. Mrs. Hamilton has served a little more than five months of her sentence, and she is reported as confident that she will be pardoned. If the pardon is granted she will make an active fight in the divorce proceedings now pending.

The Columbian.

BLOOMSBURG, PA.

FRIDAY, MARCH 14, 1890.

The name of Col. R. Bruce Ricketts of Wilkesbarre is among those who are suggested as candidates for the Gubernatorial nomination at the Democratic state convention to be held at Scranton next August. Col. Ricketts would make a popular candidate, and if elected he would surround himself with democrats, and not turn over the victory to the advantage of the enemy. He would make a genuine first-class governor. Columbia county is proud of him, and would rejoice to see him the standard bearer of the party next fall.

WASHINGTON LETTER.

(From our regular correspondent.)

Washington, D. C. March, 10 1890.

Vice President Morton's sudden trip to Florida has been fully explained to your correspondent by a prominent republican who is not an admirer of the boodle campaign nomination in '92. "Morton's object", said this gentleman", in going to Florida at this time is to hold a private consultation with Senator Quay, who is also down there, and to ascertain whether his support can be purchased. He is prepared to pay a big price, and I am afraid he will succeed for Quay has always had a weakness for money, particularly when in large sums, and no man knows the value of money in political campaign better than he".

There is on old fashioned game called "the devil among the tailors" that reminds one of Frank Hatton and the Civil Service commission. As soon as the testimony in the Congressional investigation, which has been anything else but favorible to the present band of Civil Service reform, was all in, Hatton threw another dynamite bomb into the reform-sham camp by charging that certain letters written by one W, D. Foulke and printed in the New York Times and the St Louis Republican which charged Mr. Harrison and his Cabinet with having entered into a conspiracy to break down the system of Civil Service Commissioners. The two Commissioners deny the charge. Of course that was to be expected; it was either deny or hand in their resignations. But Hatton will not let the thing stop here, if he can convince Mr. Harrison of the truthfulness of his charge somebody will hear something drop before long.

The democratic members of the House are fretting no little because they lost a seat in the House last week that might just as well have been kept. The trouble, is that certain democratic members of the House refuse to sacrifice either their pleasure or their private business to occupy their seats and attend to the duties that they were elected to perform. There are several of these men who have not voted in the House this sesion. In this particular case several republicans, disgusted with the report of the majority of the Election Committee, intimated to democrats that while they would not vote against the contestant they would make it a point to absent themselves without pairing when the time came to take a final vote so as to make it certain that the democrats could defeat the contestant. These gentlemen kept their words, and yet the contestant was seated by a beggarly majority of two votes, all because the Chronic absentees of democratic side were not on hand to vote.

A minority report was submitted by Mr Oates who it will be remembered engineered the long dead-lock in the last Congress against the same bill. No dead-lock can prevent it from becoming a law this time.

The House committee on Pensions seems to have gone daft. A majority of that committee has practically agreed to report bills that would, if they became laws, require nearly $700,000,000 to pay the pensions. These reports are only bunkum, no sane man has any idea that more than one of the bills-the dependent-will be passed, and that is by no means certain, as the rapidly lessening Treasury surplus has already caused the republican leaders to notify the chairman of committee to curtail their appropriations if they expected the bills to get through.

The House will probably take up the bills admitting Wyoming and Idaho this week. The democrats will antagonize the bills with an omnibus bill prepared by Mr. Springer providing for the admission of Wyoming, Idaho, New Mexico and Arizona.

It was supposed that in view of the facts and the law, and also of the fact that the votes were not specially needed that the Senate Committee on Elections could afford to be fair in making a decision in the Montana Senatorial contest, but by a strict party vote it has decided to report in favor of the republicans. A more outrageous and unfair decision was never made by any committee.

It is impossible to get a republican member of the House Ways and Means committee to say a word about the new tariff bill, and when it will be reported if it ever is, nobody seems willing to even guess.

Out of the four contested election cases decided by the House only one democrat has been allowed to retain his seat.

When the Senate Committee that has been struggling so hard to discover how the proceedings of secret sessions leaked out began to examine the Senators the scales fell from its eyes. Now the Committee knows what everybody else has known all the time.

Deformity From Bright's Disease.

S. D. VanBuskirk, of Demarest, N. J., says Aug. 20, 1888: "Dr. David Kennedy's Favorite Remedy, of Rondout, N. Y., has cured our daughter of Bright's Disease, after all other means had failed. She was so swoolen that she measured 45 inches around the waist, and 18 inches below the knee. To say that we feel thankful for such a boon as Favorite Remedy is but a poor expression of the feeling of grateful parents.—3-7 1-m.

Revolt for Tariff Reform.

When individual cupidity and political power unite to maintain a party policy that is oppressive upon the masses of the people, reform is proverbially slow in all parties. It was individual cupidity and political traditions which make the supporters of crushing war taxes in time of peace refuse to bend until they shall be broken by popular revolution.

That open, able and daring Republican revolt in favor of positive tariff and tax reform will exhibit itself before the close of the present year is now in no degree doubtful. Just who will win the distinction of leading it is not yet foreshadowed; but that there will be such leaders either before or after the next November elections, is as certain as the rising of to-morrow's sun. The logical leader of the West is Senator Allison, of Iowa whose treeless farms are oppressively taxed for lumber whose owners of diminishing flocks are oppressively taxed for woolens, and whose non-producers of iron, tin, etc., are oppressively taxed for the common necessaries of life. The logical leader of the East is Senator Aldrich, whose large interests in New England industries impress him above all arbitrary party teachings, of the supreme necessity of free wool, coal, iron ore, tin, etc to save both the capital and labor of that section.

There is no State in the Union whose industries so imperatively demand free raw materials and cheaper necessaries of life as do the industries of Pennsylvania. Our woolen industry is languishing in paralysis so far as it has escaped bankruptcy. Our coal mines are cheapening labor and reducing production with Canada close by us and ready to consume from three to five millions of our coal if it was not forbidden by needless taxes which neither give revenue nor protect labor. Our iron furnaces and mills are already undersold in New England, New York, Philadelphia, Pittsburg, Indianapolis, etc., by Alabama, where the industry is only in its infancy, and it is merely a question of a very few years when the iron establishments of Eastern Pennsylvania must have free iron ore or give up the unequal contest. Senator Cameron and Senator Quay both know the imperative wants of Pennsylvania industries, and they must know that both the farmers and the protected labor of the State are on the verge of organized revolt against the present atrocious taxes on the necessaries of business and of life. If there is any logic in politics, both the Pennsylvania Senators must soon join the revolt in favor of tariff reform. If they don't do it, men of opposing political faith will be heard in Washington, commissioned to supplant present party rulers, in behalf of the overtaxed people.

The tariff raform revolt is now as inevitable as was the anti-slavery revolt of 1858, and if the party in power can't exhibit the fidelity and courage necessary to advance the party standard to thorough tax reform, no human effort can rescue it from defeat. Tariff reform revolt is here; it has come to stay and the Republican leaders who first appreciate its necessity and accept it manfully. will be the most trusted party leaders in the near future.—Times.

Peculiar

Many peculiar points make Hood's Sarsaparilla superior to all other medicines.

Peculiar in combination, proportion, and preparation of ingredients, Hood's Sarsaparilla possesses the full curative value of the best known remedies of the vegetable kingdom. Peculiar in its strength and economy—Hood's Sarsaparilla is the only medicine of which can truly be said, "One Hundred Doses One Dollar." Medicines in larger and smaller bottles require larger doses, and do not produce as good results as Hood's. Peculiar in its medicinal merits, Hood's Sarsaparilla accomplishes cures hitherto unknown, and has won for itself the title of "The greatest blood purifier ever discovered." Peculiar in its "good name at home,"—there is now more of Hood's Sarsaparilla sold in Lowell, where it is made, than of all other blood purifiers. Peculiar in its phenomenal record of sales abroad, no other preparation has ever attained such popularity in so short a time, and retained its popularity and confidence among all classes of people so steadfastly.

This Remedy is the perscription of one of the leading physicians of Paris, France, and was used by him with unparalleled success for over thirty years, it was first given to the public as a proprietary medicine in 1878. Since which time it has found its way into almost every county on the face of the globe, and become a favorite remedy with thousands of the leading physicians. Medical societies have discussed its marvelous success at their annual conventions, and after their official chemists have analyzed it and found that it contained no opiates, bromides or other harmful ingredients placed it among their standard remedies.

TESTIMONIAL.

23 West Jersey St.,
ELIZABETH N. J. June 28, 1889.

This is to certify that I have used for some months with much satisfaction, the combination of remedies, for Headache, known as Briggs' Headache Troches. The remedy cures more headache, especially such as affect Nervous Women, than anything I am acquainted with, and if this certificate will be the means of bringing it to the favorable attention of sufferers from that trouble, I shall feel that I have done them a service.

Monday was a harvest day for those who gather ice. From Bloomsburg to the North Mountain there was not a pond twenty feet square but that some person was seen cutting ice. In running streams very little ice was frozen, and hence resort was made to small ponds. In a journey up the Bloomsburg & Sullivan railroad Monday morning among the first places we saw ice being cut was at the Red Rock bridge, the next was up little Fishingcreek, the next in Shaffer's field near the Iron Company's dam. At Lightstreet in one place there were thirteen teams loading ice at one time, and probably more were on the road with ice. Teams were hauling ice at Forks, Zaner's, Stillwater and Benton. Those who gathered ice were not particular as to the quality; the chief consideration was thickness; no attention was paid to clearness, grass and leaves were intermingled. The winter of 1889 90 will long be remembered as a winter in which our running streams were not closed for a single day.

You may sing of the beauty of springtime
That glows on the cheek of the young,
But I sing of a beauty that's rarer
Than any of which you have sung.
The beauty that's seen in the faces
Of women whose summer is o'er,
The autumn-like beauty that charms us
Far more than the beauty of yore.

But this beauty is seen too rarely. The faces of most women lose the beauty of youth too soon. Female disorders are like frosts which come to nip the flowers which betoken good health, without which there can be no real beauty. If our American women would fortify themselves against the approach of the terrible disorders so prevalent among them, by using Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription, their good looks would be retained to a "sweet old age." This remedy is a guaranteed cure for all the distressing weaknesses and derangements peculiar to women.

Blew The Top of His Head off.

John McCafferty, a young man residing at Centralia, stopped last Saturday evening on his way home from Ashland at the house of Daniel Faust. McCafferty knocked for admittance but this being denied, he began pounding the door in. Faust, who was at home, procured his shotgun and waited till the door gave way, when he fired, blowing the top of McCafferty's head off. The wounded man was removed to his home where he now lies at the point of death. Faust went to Ashland and gave himself to the authorities.

JOHN R. HERRING.

One of the saddest deaths that has occurred in this town for a long time is that of John Reece Herring, son of county treasurer G. A. Herring, who died on Monday at 12 o'clock, at the age of 22 years. He had been ill for sometime, and while his disease was known to be incurable, his death was not looked for so soon. When it came it was peaceful and apparently painless.

John R. Herring was born in Shenandoah, Schuylkill Co. His father moved to Bloomsburg when John was a little child He attended school at the Normal and in 1885 he entered Lafayette College at Easton, and graduated in 1889, taking one of the honors on commencement day. During his Senior year he was editor-in-chief of the "Lafayette," a bi-weekly published in the interest of the college. He was a member of the Chi Phi Fraternity, and the Franklin Literary Society. In 1888 he was registered as a student at law in the office of Ikeler & Herring, and since his graduation he read law with his brother Grant Herring Esq. until the 28th day of last November, when he was taken sick and was confined to the house until his death. Everything that could be done for him was done, and the best medical advice sought, but in vain.

The deceased was a young man of correct habits, unblemished character a quiet gentlemanly disposition, and possessed of more than ordinary ability. Fully equipped for the battle of life, he had scarce entered the arena until the fell destroyer, death, claimed him as its own, and the hopes of the family and friends for a useful and brilliant career, have been dashed to the ground. Such is life; such is death.

The funeral took place on Wednesday morning at 10 o'clock, Rev. Mr. Hellman officiating. Rev. I. M. Patterson, Rev. S. W. Sears, and Dr. D. J. Waller also participated in the services. The casket was a very handsome one covered with figured plush of dark gray color. Upon it rested a beautiful floral pillow sent by the members of his college fraternity. The pall bearers were six students from Lafayette College, among them being Frank and Fred Ikeler, sons of Judge Ikeler. The attendance at the funeral was very large, and there was a universal expression of regret at the untimely death of so estimable a young man, stricken down in the bloom of youth. The family have the warmest sympathy of the community.

PROPER ROAD LAWS.

A BILL TO SUIT ALL PARTS OF THE STATE DIFFICULT TO FRAME.

John A. Gundy, of Lewisburg, Pa., as Chairman of the State Board of Agriculture's Committee on Roads, gives his idea of how to obtain better highways in the State, as follows: "A general road law for Pennsylvania suited to the varied conditions of the several sections of the State, will be difficult to frame. But such a law is needed, and should designate the kind of road to be constructed, which should be suited to the kind and amount of traffic on the road. Many roads are so little used that to macadamize them would be reckless extravagance.

COUNTY AND TOWNSHIP SUPERVISORS.

"A County Supervisor should be appointed who should be competent, and should authorize the kind of road to be constructed. A township supervisor should be elected who should be made primarily and individually liable for damages resulting from his negligence, and should give bonds for faithful performance of his duty. The road taxes should be made payable in money in all cases. But no law will be enforced unless the people are in sympathy with it. They can only be brought in sympathy with a new road law that would make radical changes in the making of roads and collecting of taxes, by education, by showing them by actual demonstration that it will be advantageous and economical for them to support such changes. This can best be done by the construction of short stretches of macadam roads on the most important highways in each township, selecting the worst portions of such roads for such improvements. Seeing such roads and using them in comparison with poorly made mud roads will be the most potent educator that can be had.

APPRECIATION COMES TARDILY.

"This is well shown in the Cassatt road in Montgomery county, as also in a short stretch of about eighty rods of macadam made in one of the townships of Union county some fifteen years ago. The portion macadamized was about the worst section of a four-mile road leading out of Lewisburg. The stones were at the side of the road, and were broken and the road bed covered wide enough for two tracks, depth of stone unknown, at a cost, I am told, of only four dollars per lineal rod, or $1,280 per mile. The supervisor who constructed the road was voted out of office the following spring, as might have been supposed. But to-day, fifteen years after, with not one dollar spent on this section since, this road is considered the most economically constructed in the whole township, and the supervisor now receives the credit due him at the time. Roads on which such permanent improvements are to be made should be properly located, and changes contemplated should be made before the work is begun.

MACADAM'S SYSTEM THE BEST AT PRESENT.

"But is the macadam system to be the road in the twentieth century? I think not. The Appian Way, running from Rome to Capua, has been in use for 2200 years, and the macadam, a cheaper form, has been in use for 100 years. Surely the genius of the twentieth century will devise a better plan. If this improved road be a steel rail resting on a steel tie, like the street railways of our cities, or whatever form is likely to be adopted, all work done should be such as will be suited to the new roads, and probably nothing more nearly fills this requirement than the macadam system. But whatever is done, let us go as fast as education of the people will warrant. If they are educated to demand good roads, they will come; if not, it will be difficult to get them under any law.

Resolutions on the death of Frank Fornwald, who died Feb. 23, 1890, aged 8 yrs. 10 months, 5 days, in Pine township.

WHEREAS, It has pleased our ever kind and indulgent Heavenly Father, in his unerring wisdom and goodness, to enter our Sunday School and call from our midst our loving and beloved scholar, Frank H. Fornwald; therefore be it

Resolved, That while we so deeply feel our loss, we bow in humble submission to the will of Him who doth all things well.

Resolved, That in the death of little Frank, Wesley Chapel Sunday School has lost one of its most faithful scholars; one that was never absent while his health permitted him to attend.

Resolved, That we extend our deepest sympathy to the bereaved father and friends, from whom he has for some years been separated by the death of a kind and loving mother, and also to the sorrowing family of W. P. Faus, to whom he was as a son and brother, and who mourn his loss as one of their own.

Resolved, That these resolutions be placed on the minutes of our Sunday School, and a copy sent to the bereaved families, and also to the COLUMBIAN for publication.

Man's Flattery of Woman.

I would also advise young women not to depend for happiness upon the flatteries of men. It is a poor compliment to your sex that so many men feel obliged in your presence to offer unmeaning compliments Men capable of elegant and elaborate conversation elsewhere sometimes feel called upon at the door of the drawing-room to drop their common sense and to dole out sickening flatteries. They say things about your dress, and about your appearance that you know, and they know, are false. They say you are an angel. You know you are not. They tell you that "you are looking singularly beautiful this evening," when you know very well that the remark is only a commonplace one. Some men think that a conversation with a woman is interesting only as it is dotted and spiced with flatteries and meaningless compliments. Determined to tell the truth in office, and store, and shop, they consider it honorable to lie to a woman. The same thing that they told you on this side of the drawing-room, three minutes ago they said to some one on the other side of the drawing room. Oh, let no one trample on your self-respect. The meanest thing on which a woman can build her happiness is the flatteries of men.—REV. T. DE WITT TALMAGE, in March Ladies' Home Journal.

GUAVA.

John Wagonseller of Bloomsburg paid us a visit on Saturday.

Several of our citizens took the train on Saturday last for Berwick, Bloom, Lightstreet and other points. Among the number were John Kile, Emanuel Diltz, J. T. Meeker, Ben Pealer, Mrs. Amos Harlan and Misses Rosa and Ida Peterman.

Jacob Stout, and Jacob Hess and wife visited the new City on Saturday.

Mr Chancy Masteller met with quite a misfortune, while on his way home, on last Sunday night, after he had escorted his lady home from church. As he was walking along through a woods, he saw what he supposed to be a lady's muff. He stooped down to pick it up, but was surprised, (and almost shocked) to find it was a skunk.

Mr. G. L. Hess who drove from Philadelphia to this place arrived here on last Friday. He made the trip in four days.

A missionary anniversary was held at the M. E. Church on Sunday evening. Rev. Mendenhall of Berwick, preached the sermon for the occasion, after which a basket collection was taken and report given as to the amount the Sunday school had raised during the year which was a few cents over twenty-six dollars.

A few of our people availed themselves of the opportunity of getting ice and have succeeded in filling their ice houses.

Mrs. A. B. White is now able to be around again after being confined to the house during most of the winter.

G. M. Lockard is busy at his farm where he is building a new barn. When finished it will be the model barn of the country, being forty-six by eighty feet.

John Kitchen of Shamokin spent Sunday at G. P. Reighard's.

Asa Graham, who has been confined to the house for the past six weeks, is still unable to be about.

M. L. Keller and family have moved to his father's farm, where he will take charge of the farming the coming season.

P. W. Zeigler contemplates building an addition to his house in the near future.

One of Cambra's old residents who moved west some years ago, was seen on our streets Saturday being Washington Shaffer.

The sale of Conrad Hippensteel on Saturday was well attended. Judging from the price that pigs two months old were sold for, it would have been better to have had all pigs for sale.

Rev. Dunlap has been attending conference the past week at York. York Co.

D. W. Wertman and B. F. Bartch started for Utah, Monday morning on a visit to G. W. Bartch, the latter's brother.

And now as the small boy doth say: That the new choir are invited around to disperse some choice music and partake of ice cream and cake; it makes us wish that the older ones who first began to send forth the melody of praise had stayed just a wee moment longer, in order that our share and say might have been taken notice of But in this world of disappointment we must succumb to the inevitable.

E. D. Hagenbuch had the pleasure of taking a number of the young people over to Afton to the Missionary Anniversary on Saturday evening last. We should judge by their merry return that their enjoyment was beyond description.

There was also a Missionary Anniversary held in the M. E. Church of this place, on Sunday evening. Our worthy Pastor Rev. Mallalieu had a very interesting program. Rev. Mendenhall of Berwick delivered a sermon on 'The Transfiguration of Christ,' which was highly appreciated by all.

The music which was rendered by the young choir was also a grand success, and was superior to the past. Also the music by the young cornetist was highly appreciated.

The announcement of the death of Mrs. J. K. Sharpless on Thursday morning last came like a clap of thunder from a clear sky to the majority of the community. Although it was known that she was suffering from an incurable disease—angina pectoris, a form of heart disease—and to the family that her condition was critical, the comunity at large were unaware that any alarming developments had occured, and were totally unprepared for the news of her death which occured about ten o'clock.

For two years past she had been a sufferer from this fatal disease, and though at times her sufferings were excruciating, she bore them with christian resignation and patience.

The funeral took place on Monday afternoon at 2 o'clock.

Mary Margaret Harder, daughter of John and Sarah Harder, was born in Milton, Pa. October 16th, 1823, and died March 6th, 1890, aged 66 years 4 months and 20 days. On Dec. 22, 1842, she was united in marriage with J. K. Sharpless at Catawissa, where she then resided, her parents having removed to this place some years before. Their union was blessed with seven children, six of whom survive her—Ambrose H., Charles C., Mrs. Dr. L. B. Kline, Mrs. C. H. Bibby, Mrs. J. D. Bodine, and Dr. B. F. Sharpless; one, Mrs. Isabel Decker, dying at Kingston, Pa., Oct. 20th. 1877. Fifteen grandchildren also survive her, all of whom were in attendance at the funeral. Deceased was of a kind, generous and gentle disposition; she had for all a kind encouraging word; all who came under her roof received a cordial welcome and cheerful greeting. She was constantly planning some kind deed for members of her family or for others. She experienced the truth of God's holy word where it says, "It is more blessed to give than to receive."

In her death the aged husband has lost a faithful and devoted wife, one who was a true helpmate; her children a mother whose chief concern was for their temporal, moral and spiritual welfare; the church a conscientious member, who for thirty-five years adorned her profession by a holy life, and upright conversation. Her christian life was quiet and unassuming, yet earnest and sincere; she was never given to self-praise, her disposition being to rather exalt the virtues of others while she depreciated her own. The community loses one who had continually at heart the welfare of all its members, and the poor one whose heart beat in sympathy with them, and whose hand was ever ready to respond to their necessities.—Catawissa News Item.

WANAMAKER'S.

PHILADELPHIA, Monday, Mar. 10, 1890.

There are studies here in Dress Goods. One, important, ECONOMY. A very slender purse may proviee neatness, even style in women's dress. American Ginghams 10 and 12½ cents, American Sateens 12½ cents, Crazy Crepe 10 cents, Cotton Challis 6 and 8 cents Indigo Chintz 8 cents. Striped Skirtings, 12½ cents are some of the incidents in cotton. In wool and worsted 23 colors in French Serge at 50 cents; All-wool Tricots Fancy Wool Suitings, English Mohairs, a great variety in each 37½ cents. Such chances are the outcome of aggregation—this business is aggregation.

A study of Dress Cottons now here would amuse, instruct, interest you. Two years ago Sateens were supreme. We then advertised them by the thousands of styles. Sateens are in retirement now. To be sure we have the choice French Blacks with white figures, and the best in other colors at 25, 30 and 35 cents; also American at 12½ and 20 cents. But the great glory of Sateens is departed. Ginghams are regnant. Mark this. The Gingham counters have styles by the thousands, and in the vast quantity there are no two pieces alike. The duplicates are upstairs—room only for sample pieces. Fastidiousness o'erleaps itself when our Ginghams fail to yield the right selections. The great unknown maker (25 cents) is sending in the Tartans now. Hunt up your heraldry, know your plaid, and find it here, or the colors of your plaid in a bold stripe. Nobody will chide you if lacking the Scotch you buy the Tartan.

Continue to study the cottons. Cunard and Galatea Stripes 25 cents, Dungareen 30 cents, Oxford Cheviots 30 cents, Cambridge Twills 30 cents, Madras Cloth 30 and 40 cents. In all the fancies a wide variety. The latest additions to the cotton group are Jaconets 30 cents, and Organdies 37½ cents. The latter a mere film, a spider's web for texture, a wire cloth for strength. Your question is, how can so slight a fabric hold so much color effect?

Economy talk above told of the cheaper cottons.

Fancy Tricot that is remarkable for three things. 1—width (45 inches); 2—good looks; 3—bargain price on new goods. The broadish stripes are in sateen weave, and are self-colored. All the desirable shades are in the line. But here's where the fun for you comes in: We practically give you nine inches of width with every yard you buy. 36-inch Fancy Tricot of this grade would be 50c; this 15-inch stuff is 50c—and two yards less of it is enough for a dress pattern.

One of the brightest spots in all the Lace Curtain half acre is where the new Nottinghams are heaped. Pretty patterns, right qualities, and surprise prices:

French Guipure effects, $4 50 to $9 a pair.

Nottingham Sash Curtains for just as little accordingly—$1.35 to $4.50 a pair.

Nottingham Bed Sets (2 shams and 1 bed spread) in a great variety of patterns, white and ecru, $1 to $6 a set.

MACADAM ROADS.

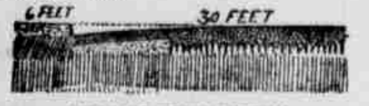
How to Construct Stone Foundations and Top Surfaces.

A roadway made with small pieces of stone firmly set in place is called a macadam road. There are many methods of construction, and the variations are chiefly in the foundation. A macadam top may be placed upon a common dirt foundation, but the best macadam roads are built with a stone foundation. The method of constructing such a road is given in the following extract from the treatise of Mr. Clemens Herschel, printed in the book on "Improvement of Highways," published by the League of American Wheelmen:

"The true principle of roadmaking consists in giving every road two component parts; one—the foundation—to be solid, unyielding, porous and of large material; the other—the top surface—to be made up of lighter material, bound compactly and evenly over the rough foundation.

"The roads of this kind, with macadam for the top surface, are called Telford roads by English writers, from Telford, who first built them in England. The Central park 'gravel roads' belong under this head, gravel taking the place of the macadam of the Telford roads. These foundation roads are of far greater importance than any other kind for state, county or town roads, also for parks and driveways. The top surface of all these roads must have a certain inclination to cause efficient surface drainage. Various authorities give various rules for the amount of this inclination or side slope. It would seem just that it should depend on the nature of the top covering, being less or more solid than for looser or softer materials, and also on the grade of the road.

"In Baden, one of the smaller German states, but which is worthy to be taken as a model in matters of road building, and in France, the rise at the center is given as 1-40 to 1-60 of the width of the road, according to the nature of the material; that is, inclinations of 1 in 20 and 1 in 30. The rules in Prussia prescribe inclinations of 1 in 24 for roads falling more than 4 in a hundred; and 1 in 18 for roads on a grade of between 2 and 4 in a hundred; and 1 in 12 for those in a grade of less than 2 in a hundred. When first built the center should be made some four inches too high to allow for after settling.



HALF OF CROSS SECTION.

"If the stone for the foundation—for which most anything will do, and that kind should be taken which is cheapest to procure—happens to be got out cheapest in larger pieces than the above dimensions, it will do no harm. This foundation course is sometimes set so as to present an inclination on top, and the cover then put on of a uniform thickness over the whole breadth. This is perhaps best, but is somewhat more expensive. It will do, in nearly all cases, to set the foundation course on a level, or as near so as the stones will allow, and then make the top crowning, by making the covering say three-quarters of an inch or an inch less thick at the edges than in the center. The stones forming the foundation should not be set in rows, nor ever laid on their flat sides, but set up on edge and made to break joints as much as possible; that is, set up irregularly. After they are set up, the points that project above the general level may be broken off, and the interstices generally filled up with small stone.

"More or less care and work are necessary in this part of the operation according to the importance of the road and the depth and character of the material used for the top covering. To roll the road at this stage is to be recommended; afterwards it becomes a requisite. The point never to be lost sight of is that this foundation course must remain porous, must be pervious to water, so that all rain water that shall soak through the top covering will find through it means of escape to the ground underneath; thence, according to the nature of the subsoil, it is left either to soak into the ground or must be further led away by appropriate drains."

Another authority in the same work, writing upon the top surface for a stone road, says:

"Experience has shown that while six inches may be a sufficient depth for light travel, twelve to eighteen inches are necessary if heavy loads must be carried at all seasons of the year. For country macadam roads the limits would be between six and twelve inches, according to the character of the subsoil. For the thorough construction of macadam roads the stones are now crushed by machinery and then rolled with steam road rollers of ten to fifteen tons weight. The weight of the roller per square inch on the bearing surface should be equal to the expected weight, per square inch, under the wheels of the heaviest loads.

"Where thorough work of the best character is wanted, engineering skill and experience are requisite, but the general methods may be briefly stated, so that wherever bad sloughs need filling up with stone, the macadam plan may be followed at least approximately. The trench or road bed should be dug out to the required width and depth, the larger stones should then be selected and firmly packed together across the foundation in irregular courses, in the general form of a street pavement. They should all rest on their flattest or broadest surfaces, and the thin or jagged edges upward. The interstices or spaces should be closely filled up with chips and the whole layer be well rammed or rolled into a solid mass.

"On top of this place a layer of finely broken stone of the thickness requisite to bring the surface to grade, with a good crown in the center. This should be rolled until the whole mass is firmly bound together, and then covered with sharp gravel or fine screenings of broken stones of sufficient depth to bed and bind the layer of broken stone. In the future maintenance of such a road the most important point is to prevent the formation of ruts, by keeping the surface so uniformly even that there will be no inducement for travel to follow beaten tracks. The cost of the macadam structure precludes its use on country roads, except in occasional bad spots where stone is necessary."

The Married Woman's Act.

RIGHTS GIVEN BY THE STATUTE DEFINED BY THE SUPREME BENCH.

The Supreme Court has officially decided how far a married woman who had not been declared a fene sole trader could be held responsible in business transactions. The act in question has proved a puzzling one to every court in the State and each one of its seven sections has been differently construed from time to time by different courts. Several points under it have been decided by the Supreme Court, but the Supreme Court gives a comprehensive view of the whole act.

The decision was rendered in the appeal of Oliver Roop and his wife, Fanny C., from a decision of Court of Common pleas No. 3, which refused to open a judgment entered by the Real Estate Investment Company on judgment note signed by Mr. and Mrs Roop. Passing over the minor claims of the Roops for a reversal of the court below, Chief Justice Paxson in delivering the opinion addresses himself principally to the act. Quoting from it he refers particularly to the restrictions mentioned in the different sections, which are that a married woman shall have no power to mortgage or convey her real estate unless her husband join in the conveyance, nor may she become endorser, guarantor or surety for an other.

"We do not think it was intended to confer a power to contract generally," says the opinion. "The act must be considered as a whole. Viewed in this light it unfetters a married woman subject to the restrictions mentioned, for three purposes, viz: (1) where she engages in trade or business. (2) in the management of her seperate estate and (3) for necessaries. For any of these purposes she may bind herself and her estate or business by her contract, and I have no doubt may lawfully confess a judgment. But beyond this we do not think the act confers any power. It is entirely proper that the law should clothe her with sufficient power to properly manage her seperate estate, and when it authorizes her to embark in business it is right that she should be held to her contracts, which can only be done by authorizing her to make such contracts. So in regard to necessaries. If she may purchase them she should be authorized to bind herself and her estate for them in the usual manner and by the usual forms by which contracts are made by persons sui juris. But we are not disposed to say for every purpose, she may make contracts and bind her estate generally as may a femme sole. The Legislature must say so in language too clear to be misunderstood before we will subject the estates of married women to such a peril as this."

"It was considered that this judgment was given by a married woman. It was not pretended that it was done in the management of or for the benefit of her seperate estate, or in the prosecution of any business in which she was engaged, or for necessaries. On the contrary, if not given as surety for he husband, it was given upon his importunity, and to aid him in his business, one of the very perils from which the law ought to protect a married woman.

"The judgment, having been confessed without authority, is void as to Fanny C. Roop. The order of the court below is reversed as to Fanny C. Roop, and the judgment against her is stricken from the record."

JEWELS AND LACES.

"Oh, girl with the jewelled fingers,
Oh, girl with the laces rare!"

What are your jewels and what are your laces worth to you if, from undergoing the trying ordeals which fashionable society imposes on its devotees, enough to test the physical strength and endurance of the most robust, you break down, lose your health and become a physical wreck, as thousands do from such causes?

Under such circumstances you would willingly give all your jewels and all your laces to regain lost health. This you can do if you will but resort to the use of that great restorative known as Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. Thousands of grateful women bless the day it was made known to them.

For all derangements, irregularities and weaknesses peculiar to women, it is the only remedy, sold by druggists, under a positive guarantee from the manufacturers, that it will give satisfaction in every case, or money will be refunded. This guarantee has been printed on the bottle-wrapper, and faithfully carried out for many years.

An invigorating tonic, it imparts strength to the whole system. For feeble women generally, Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription is the greatest earthly boon.

Dr. Pierce's Pellets regulate and cleanse the liver, stomach and bowels. One a dose. Sold by druggists. 25 cents a vial.

For The Old Procedure.

THE SUPREME COURT DISAPPROVES THE ATTEMPT TO SIMPLIFY PROCEEDINGS.

The Supreme court filed an opinion, at its own suggestion, in which it very severely criticises the Act of Assembly of May 9, 1889, intended to simplify law proceedings by providing that proceedings taken to the Supreme Court should be by appeal, abolishing writs of error and certiorari.

"Instead of simplifying proceedings in this court," says the opinion of the whole court, delivered as per curiam opinion, "the Act of 1889 has produced nothing but confusion. It was not called for by any public need; it was not asked for by this Court, nor by any considerable number of the members of the bar who practice therein, and it serves no usual purpose. We unanimously and respectfully suggest its early appeal by the Legislature.

"As some confusion exists as to the proper construction of the act of 9th of May, 1889; P. L. 158, relating to writs of error and appeals," says the Court, "we deem it proper to say that the primary object of said act appears to be to substitute an appeal for the ancient and well understood writs of error and certiorari. This is a mere change of name; the proceeding itself is unchanged. The writ of error which comes here under the mask of an appeal is still a writ of error in effect, with all its incidents. The same may be said of appeals which come up in the place of a certorari. In each of this class of appeals the appeal must be taken in this court as writs of error and certiorari were formerly taken. The provision in the second section of said act that the record on any appeal perfected in the court from which the appeal may be taken, may be filed in the Supreme Court without requiring a writ of certiorari evidently refers to appeals from the Orphans' Court, appeals in equity, and from the distribution of money, which have always been taken in the court from which the decree appealed from was made. As to such appeals the practice remains unchanged. In such cases a certiorari was almost invariably issued to bring up the record. It is the only proper and legal mode of doing so."

Substitute for Coffee.

A new substitute for coffee may turn up in a berry known as "gaertnera." The British Consul at Reunion says that at one time he received many letters from merchants in England asking for information respecting a shrub then called "mussaenda," the discovery of which, it had been said in some commercial journals, would deal a severe blow to the coffee and chicory trade. About two years ago a rumor was spread that the berry of this shrub could be advantageously employed as a substitute for coffee and chicory. It grows to about ten feet high, has very few leaves, and its branches are wide apart. The berries do not grow along the branches, as is the case with coffee, but in bunches at their extremities. At present it is only met with in the mountains, where it grows wild. It might be produced on an extensive scale; but with its inferiority in fragrance and color it could hardly compete with coffee.

To Make New Blood Good for Old People.

Old and infirm persons need some mild tonic or gentle stimulant, especially in warm weather. The wine made in New Jersey by Mr. Speer, called Speer's Port Wine, makes new healthy blood by reason of the iron in the soil. It is used by the most eminent physicians and in hospitals as the best tonic wine known. Speer's Claret is also regarded as the purest.

The Tolling of the Bell.

The modern "tolling" is in many places synonymous with the passing bell, and the sexton is said to pass the bell when he sounds the melancholy funeral knell. The true passing bell was, however, rung during the last moments of the dying. Durand, in his "Rationale," 1190, says: "When any one is dying bells must be tolled that the people may put up prayers. Twice for a woman, thrice for a man; if for a clergyman, as many times as he hath orders, and at the conclusion a peel on all the bells to distinguish the quality of the person for whom the people are to put up their prayers."

This was a very ancient custom. It is even mentioned by the venerable Bede. He gives the following interesting story—a relic of the dim and distant ages: When the Abess of St. Hilda's was dying a sister in a distant monastry heard in her sleep a bell like that which called them to prayers when a soul was departing, and she accordingly aroused the inmates of her convent to pray and sing requiems.—San Francisco Chronicle.

The Standard

"I regard Hood's Sarsaparilla as having passed above the grade of what are commonly called patent or proprietary medicines," said a well known physician recently. "It is fully entitled to be a standard medicine, and has won this position by its undoubted merits and by the many remarkable cures it has effected. For an alterative and tonic it has never been equalled."

RHEUMATISM

For More than Twenty-five Years.—A Complete Recovery.—The Means Used.

I had Inflammatory Rheumatism. For nearly a year I had to be fed and turned in bed. I could find no relief. My stomach was ruined and cut to pieces with powerful medicines taken to effect a cure so that I was compelled to live on bread and water. I suffered for twenty-five years in this way. I was induced to try Dr. David Kennedy's Favorite Remedy, made at Rondout, N. Y., and thanks to this medicine. Dr. Kennedy's Favorite Remedy is my best friend. With it I am enabled to enjoy a good night's rest. Also food, such as meat and pastry, which I have been deprived of for years, showing that the Favorite Remedy has no equal for the cure of Indigestion and Dyspepsia as well. If any should doubt this statement I will send the ready proof at once.—Garrett Lansing, Troy, N. Y.

It is my pleasure and absolute duty toward those who are struggling for very life against the deadly to add my testimony to the already weighty evidence of the wonderful efficacy of Dr. David Kennedy's Favorite Remedy. My wife was a hopeless case, abandoned by the physicians. Dr. David Kennedy's Favorite Remedy was resorted to; not because any hope was placed in it, but because nothing else remained. All means and medicines had been tested without avail. The effect was little short of a miracle. At the second bottle she had regained strength, and continuing the treatment has fully recovered.—Jay Sweet, Albany, N. Y.
